The protease resistance of cancer cells could reflect a failure to respond to a danger signal for apoptosis. We have established, by a loss of function approach, 3 novel variants of p53, related proteins involved in the apoptotic response. We report that these variants are expressed in lung cancer lines but are not detectable in normal tissues. Knockdown experiments show that only one of these variants, mutant p53 alpha, plays a role in apoptosis resistance. Transient expression of this mutant p53 leads to inhibition of apoptosis in cancer cells. Our data suggest that p53 mutants are involved in apoptosis resistance of lung cancer cells and this resistance is linked to their ability to escape tumor surveillance.package reflect2 import ("reflect" "unsafe") type safeSliceType struct { safeType } func (type2 *safeSliceType) SetIndex(obj interface{ }, index int, value interface{ }) { val := reflect.ValueOf(obj).E 3da54e8ca3
