What's new:

Ruthless Conquest: The Battle of Hormozd 462-425 BC is an historical novel by the Persian-born English author Houghton Mifflin Harcourt. It tells the tale of Xerxes I of Persia's great military expedition against Athens between 486 and 479 BC. It was first published in 1999 by Houghton Mifflin Harcourt and has since been translated into several languages. The trials of the Spartans at Thermopylae were made so much more difficult, in 500 BC, by their internal disputes over the unpopularity of Leonidas and by issues of land ownership, despite their Royal connections being far superior to those of their Spartan neighbours. The debate in Athens over the issue of re-submission to Persian rule started to go in favour of the Athenians as they became convinced that a Spartan-
