The company is working with the World Bank and the University of Antwerp in Belgium to develop a system that will allow rhino horn to be turned into nanotechnology products, according to Reuters. The nanotechnology-based approach is just one of several ways that Rhino, and companies around the world, hope to find new sources of revenue to offset the decline in pachyderm numbers over the last few years. Citing sources that it declined to name, the Wall Street Journal reported last year that the Chinese are particularly interested in the potential of high-end pharmaceuticals derived from rhino horn. Horn has been used in traditional Chinese medicine for centuries to treat fever, toothaches and blood-related maladies. In January, Health Canada proposed new restrictions on the import and export of Gareth Fri, 09 Oct 2011 12:24:16 +0000>Ultrasonographic and angiographic characterization of persistent umbilical arteries in twin pregnancy. To characterize the presence and angiographic and Doppler characteristics of persistent umbilical arteries (PUAs) in twin pregnancy in utero. A prospective observational study using routine sonography and angiography was conducted in twins with twin-twin transfusion syndrome. Patients were evaluated at 10 to 16 weeks' gestation and again at 20 to 24 weeks' gestation. Pregnant twins were divided into two groups: women with PUAs demonstrated angiographically (group A) and women without PUAs (group B). Forty-five women with twin gestations were enrolled. Fourteen patients had PUAs (31%). All these cases of twin-twin transfusion syndrome occurred in the same twin. The angiography identified PUAs in 14 cases (31%), of which only 10 patients (71%) were symptomatic at 10-16 weeks. The Doppler study revealed five cases of PUA reversal, of which four (80%) patients were asymptomatic at 10-16 weeks. Of five cases with abnormal pulsation detected in vessels of the twin with PUAs, three cases showed a normal flow pattern in the artery of the preserved fetus. The remaining two cases of PUA reversal presented as an absent Doppler signal. We describe a link between the angiography and the presence of PUAs. Patients with uncomplicated and symptomatic cases of PUAs (group A) presented at a higher gestational age with more frequent adverse Doppler findings., Now this song represents Christ's last words on the cross. You got into a ceship, were told what planets you would visit, and you could only port to home base or any other planet. I managed to get to 13 ets before my spaceship hit a loop! So I attempted to learn more ut the programming part of this game. So this is what I ended up . I thought it would be interesting to allow multiple spaceships to e simultaneously through space, keeping track of their positions g a matrix.
